

Everything I Ever Needed to Know I Learned from Dave

Having a microphone does not make you a singer. • Why take ten minutes out of your day to run a command when you can take an hour to write a perl script that will do the same thing? • A system crash that mysteriously fixes itself is actually just a reboot. • It's not a joke if no one else is laughing. • You don't need people skills if you have an encyclopedic memory of The Simpsons. • Never tell anyone the location of your perl scripts. • Finding the William Shatner rendition of Convoy on Napster does not constitute a day's work. • Perl rocks! • Getting to work at 10am every day does not mean you live on "West Coast time." • No conversation should end "Documentation? I'll show you 'Documentation!'" • Heading off to a "vendor meeting" could just mean getting a snack at the Stars game. • Trying is the first step towards failure. • It takes a whole village to raise a child, but only half a village to raise an idiot. • Avoid euphemisms for "core dump analysis." • Pants Suck!

